Murine FasL-Strep

Cat. No. : 2-3951-002; 2-3951-010

Lot No.: 3951-

Last date of revision

August 08

Version 3951-1

Description	Murine FasL-Strep (CD95L-T4) is an engineered murine Fas (CD95) ligand. C-terminal fusion of the T4-FOLDON to the extracellular FasL (CD95L) receptor binding domain (E140-L279) results in bioactive, stable, well defined trimers in contrast to commonly used N-terminal fused coiled-coil structures¹. Please note that the mFasL.1-allele² was used for the engineering. Furthermore, fusion of a Strep-tag II C-terminal to the T4-FOLDON motif provides downstream applications like in solution cross-linking of the trimeric Fas (CD95) ligand through the monoclonal antibody StrepMAB-Immo (Cat. no. 2-1517-001) for intensification of apoptotic activity or immobilization on Strep-Tactin coated microplates (2-1501-001) for performing a heterogeneous apoptotic assay. Recombinantly expressed and purified from HEK293 cells
